BRITISH ZEP EXPLODES IN AIR; 46 KILLED

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

One of our fair motorists dropped into a service station the other night to pump up her frone tire. She stopped the car near a hose rack, got out and unscrewed the tire valve. Then she picked up a hose, put the nozzle on the tire and pressed the handle. Lo, and behold: water squirted forth in streams.

It seems that the young lady had made a slight mistake, or something.

* * * *

In speaking to her about the er-um-a-well, let's call it 'accident,' we told her that we got quite a kick out of the way she drove into a station, filled up her tires as far as she could with air, ran the car for a couple of weeks and then go into another station and pump more air in the tires. She never used a gauge.

* * * *

"Oh, are you supposed to use a gauge to see how much air you got in your tires?" was her comeback.

* * * *

Reminds us of another woman we know. Her boyfriend took a tire into a station and pumped it up with 40 pounds of air. He then jokingly complained to her that he strained his back from lifting the tire with all that weight of air in it. And she believed him.

INFORMER ARRESTED

OAKLAND, Oct. 4—Police today arrested George Thompson and his wife on charges of transportation and possession of liquor. The arrest came less than 24 hours after Thompson had told a grand jury that police had hijacked his liquor supply and had taken a large number of bottles.

The car in which Thompson was riding was said by police to be the same machine used last Tuesday morning by Richard Smart, his delivery boy in trapping Police Sergeant Fred Tatum.

Tatum is in the county jail, in lieu of $3000 bail on a charge of accepting bribes from Smart.

Police Chief J. T. Drew stated that Thompson's arrest was a coincidence, and not a spite raid by police.

Police allege that several hundred dollars worth of liquor was found in the rumble seat of Thompson's car.

The car was followed by two members of the dry squad, who insist that they did not know it was Thompson.

The two men had been given numbers of four cars, which citizens declare were bootlegger's automobiles.

While on their beat this morning, they reported they saw a car bearing one of the suspected license numbers and followed it, to arrest the driver.

Two False Alarms Here In One Day

The Richmond fire department made mileage yesterday answering two false alarms.

The first alarm came when a telephone operator reported that there was a fire at the Montgomery-Ward store at Ninth and Nevin. A checkup revealed, however, that the operator had heard one of the men in the tire department at the store answer the telephone. He said "Tire Department" and she misunderstood him and thought he had yelled "Fire Department" into the phone.

The second false alarm came when a tractor at the Ford plant site hit a telegraph pole. The impact was enough to jolt a fire alarm box on the pole and set it to work.

The car which was said to have been owned by Franco, was found abandoned in the Italian quarters here. Every mark of identification had been stripped from it.

At the Preston school hospital, where Roggi was removed, little hope was held for his recovery.

After seeing that the injured man was attended to, he disappeared.

WILBUR RAPS OIL ACCUSER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. —UP—Charges of maladministration of western oil shale lands, although gaining support in one official quarter, became involved today in counter accusations questioning the motives behind them and asserting that Ralph S. Kelly was being exploited by the "designing hands of those who could use him to their own advantage."

Secretary of Interior Wilbur and Attorney-General Mitchell criticized tactics of the suspended head of the general land office field division after they had been defied anew by Kelley. On the other hand, Chairman Nye of the senate public lands committee, said he thought Kelley had been justified in his attempt to resign.

Nye made it clear, however, that Secretary Wilbur was not involved in Kelley's allegations that the interior department showed favoritism to large oil companies in western Colorado oil shale concessions. The senator said he would press for a senatorial inquiry if the matter were not settled before congress meets in December.

Kelley talked to Nye for an hour or more yesterday but refused to confer with Assistant Attorney General Seth Q. Richardson, named by Mitchell to conduct an oil shale inquiry.

It was this refusal which drew the criticism from Wilbur and Mitchell and the latter announced he and Richardson would proceed with the investigation without Kelley's help.

MANY HURT IN CAPTURE OF CITY

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 4.—A revolutionary movement against the Brazilian government was started today in the state of Rio Grande de Sul, on the southern frontier of Brazil.

The Brazilian ambassador to Argentina described the insurgent movement as "insignificant" and said it would be easily suppressed. Advices from the Brazilian frontier of Uruguay conflicted as to whether the outbreak was localized at the town of Santa Ano de Livramento, or extended throughout the southern state.

The seriousness of the movement was reported increasing, but it was believed the outcome depended entirely upon whether the revolution spread to other parts of Brazil. The border advices said the direce couse of the revolt was a movement against the scheduled inauguration of President-elect Julio Prestes in November, and revolutionary circles claimed without confirmation that the important state of Minas Geraes, which lies southward and inland from Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, had joined the rebels in opposition to Prestes.

Revolt Starts

The revolution started at 8 a. m., Friday, at the town of Santa Ana, on the Uruguyan frontier. Reports of the outbreak conflicted but the most reliable said five persons were killed and eight seriously wounded. Many others were said to have been injured. All Santa Ana banks and public offices were taken over by revolutionaries, messages from Rivera said.

One of the greatest obstacles to the revolutionary movement was held to be the size of Brazil, which totals 3,285,319 square miles and a population of 39,163,855 as compared to a total area of 3,026,789 square miles for the United States.

The most reliable version of the outbreaks at Santa Ana said a group of civilians headed by Mario da Cunha, cousin of the national senator, Flores da Cunha,

The doubles title of the Contra Costa county tournament doubles will be contested this morning. Walter Honsberger and Stanley Almquist of the Berkeley Tennis club will clash with Blanchard and Catton of the Island City club of Alameda this morning at 10:30 o'clock on the Richmond City Hall courts.

A WANT AD IN THE RECORD-HERALD WILL DO THE WORK

Yacht Taken Over High Alps

GENEVA.—M. Van Vroegt, a Dutch millionaire, has taken his yacht over the Alps mountains.

Recently when preparing to go to his summer home at Montreux, on Lake Geneva, Van Vroegt expressed a desire to have his yacht sent there.

Everyone said it couldn't be done. But Van Vroegt is a millionaire and accustomed to having his wishes transformed into realities with the guilder as the magic wand.

So with his family and friends he set out from Rotterdam and followed the Rhine to Balse. There he was told the Swiss rivers and lakes were not deep enough to accommodate the yacht.

Van Vroegt became angry. Finally an arrangement was made with the Swiss railway company to transport the craft across the Alps.

The yacht had to be dismantled because it was too large to pass through the tunels and was moved at night when the traffic was light.

After 11 days the trip was over, the yacht was in the water and Van Vroeght was out $5000 expenses.

CARDINALS IN FIRST SERIES VICTORY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 4.—UP—Before 40,000 frantic home town fans, the St. Louis Cardinals found their best fighting form today and hammered out a victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the third game of the world series, 5 to 0.

A snub-nosed young Irish lad from Binghamton, N. Y., one "Wild Bill" Hallahan, hurled them to a convincing triumph to put them right back into the running for the world's championship.

The Mackmen, primed for another easy victory and a quick cleanup of the series, were helpless before the able hurling of the cool and confident southpaw and couldn't get a man past second base.

As a result of Hallahan's superb effort and some timely hitting and spectacular support, the Cards are now within one game of their rivals, who still enjoy a rather formidable lead of two games to one.

The Athletics were able to make but seven scattered hits off Hallahan's fast ball and in contrast to the first two games of the series, only one of these was for an extra base.

Young Hallahan, a brilliant product of the Texas bushes was the day's hero The catching of Jimmy Wilson, playing his first game of the series, contributed greatly to the welcome St. Louis victory. He handled the youngster perfectly and put pep into the entire team as well as driving in two runs and starting another on its way.

The entire St. Louis team looked better today, playing with a new snap and vim and completely outclassed their American league rivals.

Rube Walberg, Connie Mack's starting pitcher, was driven from the box in the fifth inning and Bill Shores, who relieved him, lasted only one and two-thirds innings before he, too, departed after an indignant wave of Mr. McGillicudy's score card. Old Jack Quinn finished the game, the Red Birds finding him for three hits and another run. A home run from the bat of Taylor Douhit floating lazily into the left field stands, where thousands of shirt-sleeved fans greeted it with howls of joy, started the Cards on the road to victory after Walberg had retired the side in order for the first three innings.

ASHBY CLUB TO OPPOSE LOCAL GRIDDERS

Football fans who like their favorite sport fast and open, will be more than satisfied at the American Legion game this afternoon, when the Richmond post tangles with the Ashby Athletic club of Berkeley on the Richmond high school field. The kickoff is scheduled for two p. m.

Under the able coaching of Claude Samples, the legion team has developed a brilliant open attack, featuring reverses, end runs and passes.

Samples has especially been centering on the passing attack, which has been developed to such a stage that completed passes in quick succession may be looked for this afternoon.

If the passing attack fails to make the yardage necessary, Samples can also fall back upon one of the most brilliant running formations ever seen in local grid circles.

Favored with a phenomenally fast and shifty backfield, Samples has worked out some of the most tricky and deceptive reverses to be seen outside of college football, and may open his bag of tricks this afternoon.

In addition to its speed and shiftiness, the legion backfield is also credited with having more than the average driving power.

Clark and Freeman, fullbacks, and both triple threat men, have been likened to plunging bulls, when it comes to hitting the line, and hold up their ends in kicking and passing, with almost any backfield man that has been seen in this vicinity.

Lemhkuhl, fighting halfback of the legion squad, can also be depended upon for plenty of yards through the line, as he demonstrated to the satisfaction of all and sundry last Sunday.

Jester and Paillo, two more halfbacks who will see action today, are also hard hitting backfield men, and are always good for several yards.

Hurley, Cornell, and McAllister, halfbacks, and Youngs at quarter, complete the remainder of the backfield, all of whom will be seen in action today.

Hurley, Cornell and Youngs, will be used chiefly to skirt the ends, and in the reverse plays, all being fast and clever.

D. MacAllister, also a fast and hard hitting back, is particularly noted for his passing, the brunt of which will probably fall upon his shoulders today.

"Mac" is conceded to be one of the most accurate passers on any state legion squad, throwing the ball like a bullet to the receiver.

The legion line, as was noted last week, is the strongest on defense, to ever wear the local colors, and is expected to smother the Ashby club's line attack at the outset.

Cooper and Pitts, Samples' choice to start the game today at ends, are two of the most dependable and steady wingmen on the squad. The pair work well together, and have proven their worth both on the offense and defense.

Milne B. MacAllister, "Fast" Sheehy and Y. Jester, other ends, will also be seen in action today, and are pressing Cooper and Pitts close for the positions.

Milne and MacAllister loom as the best bets for pass receiving both hanging on to a ball as though it were glued to their fingers. Pitts and Cooper although both dependable in receiving passes, stand out by virtue of their defense work, and according to Samples, it will take an extraordinary backfield man, assisted by superb interference, to get past either of the pair.

With Adcock, Burton, Carson and "Slow" Sheehy, ready to fill the tackle positions, Samples is confident that few, if any yards will be gained through holes left by them.

Burton, a recent addition to the squad is a heavy hard hitting linesman who plays his position well, and can be looked for to turn in some nice plays today.

Adcock and Carson, both veterans of the squad, are of the same type as Burton, and are hard sure tacklers. Sheehy, although a trifle lighter, is a fighter, and covers his position well.

Peters and Lusk, who will undoubtedly start the game, are about all that can be desired for guards, filling up the center of the line like a stone wall, against plunges, and opening holes that the proverbial horse could be driven through.

Frazier, Neckel, B. Irwin and M. Irwin will all be ready to relieve either Peters or Lusk at the guard positions, and judging from practices, will turn in good performances.

Myers at center is one of the most dependable of the linesmen. He centers the ball true and straight, and covers considerable territory from his position.

Samples is optimistic as to the outcome of the game today, and hopes to run up a high score.

The following starting lineup was issued by the coach: Cooper and Pitts, ends; Adcock and Burton, tackles; Peters and Lusk, guards; Myers, center; Youngs quarter; Paillo and MacAllister halves and Freeman full.

COUGARS BEAT CALIFORNIA ELEVEN

BERKELEY, Oct. 4.—UP— A courageous band of Cougars from Washington State came into the Berkeley foothills with one of the most deceptive forward passing attacks ever seen here, and defeated California Golden Bears, 16 to 0 today.

Forty thousand persons witnessed the game.

The victory was deserved by Washington State, for the spectacular work of the northerners, rather than any noticeable deficiency of California, turned the tide in their favor.

The Cougars completed 11 passes during the game, two of them resulting in touchdowns and another putting the ball into position for a field goal.

In the first quarter, Carl Ellingson, Washington State halfback, passed 13 yards to Lyle Maskell, an end, and the latter caught the ball over California's goal line. Maskell failed to convert.

Then in the second quarter, after Ellingson had passed to Porter Lainhard, his fellow halfback, for 15 yards and to Elmer Schwartz, fullback, for seven more, Mentor Dahlen, quarterback stood on California's eighteen yard line and place-kicked the ball between the goal posts for 3 points.

Washington State's final touchdown came early in the fourth quarter at the end of a swift 82 yard march down the field, and was scored when Tilingson passed 25 yards to Sam Hansen, an end, who ran across the goal line.

Former Richmond Woman Called

Mrs. Ellen Diller, 610 Fifty-seventh street, Oakland, died at her home in Oakland yesterday after a lingering illness.

Deceased was well known in Richmond. Her husband, Martin Diller was formerly employed by the Key System company.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow from an Oakland chapel.

High School Gridders Tie University

Two touchdowns during the last five minutes of play resulted in a 6 to 6 tie between the Richmond Union High school varsity gridders and the University of California second team frosh yesterday.

The two teams fought without scoring until the last part of the fourth quarter. Then both teams broke their bonds, and the stands were treated with a hectic five minutes of tense action.

The college boys did the first scoring. A short pass by Richmond was intercepted by York of the frosh team about his own 15 yard line. He started down the field, was thrown, arose, and continued onward to a touchdown.

Richmond's warriors returned to the fray in determined fashion, and soon brought the play into frosh territory. A long pass from John Rosano to Passoni placed the ball on U. C's 13 yard line, and another pass from Jack Stoddard to John Rossano took the locals to the college gridders' six yard line. The locals were smeared for a loss of six yards on the next play. Jack Stoddard then slipped around end for the tying touchdown. Richmond staged an unsuccessful pass in an attempt to gain an extra point.

The Richmond pigskin athletes yesterday morning showed their best football of the 1930 season. Their attack showed an improved versatility and flash over their showings in past contests of the year. They played the college boys on an equal basis, and during the part of the game showed greater speed than the frosh eleven.

Richmond's defense was its saving factor in the first quarter, during which period the frosh advanced past the Richmond 10-yard line to gain first down, only to be held by the Richmond defense.

The locals turned the tables in the second quarter, and marched down the field for three successive first downs. Several passes from Scarsella to Stoddard and a nice run by Baskett brought the play continually down the field. The ball was resting on the frosh three yard line when half time blew.

The Richmond boys maintained their driving tactics during the third quarter, bringing the ball on successive plays from their own 20 yard line to California's nine yard line.

The fourth quarter was opened by an end run by Scarsella to the university squad's two-yard line. Scarsella was then on the 10-yard line, and Richmond lost the ball on downs. A frosh pass was sensationally intercepted by Clarence Hall of Richmond on California's 17 yard line. Rosano brought the ball on an end run to the five yard line. Richmond was smeared for a loss of about 10 yards. The intercepted pass that resulted in California's lone touchdown then occurred, closely followed by Richmond's successful rally.

The Richmond backfield showed a maximum of drive yesterday, and baffled the frosh defense many times during the contest. The local backfield yesterday included: Bob Miller, Jack Stoddard, quarterbacks; Easkett, Scarsella, George Miller, Boschetti, halfbacks; Rosano, fullback.

Richmond's line held well yesterday, while much of the awkwardness that it showed in former games had disappeared.

The Richmond line yesterday included: Juillerat, Gerletti, Pizolli, Passone, ends; Ball, Ferry, Lilly, Westman, D'Avilla, tackles; Baxter, Hoeffer, Bob Drexel, Klobas, guards; Brignone, Hall, centers.

The main factors in the California frosh offense were York, tackle Miller, fullback and Michaels, at quarter.

LOCAL GIRLS WIN NET TITLE

Miss Sylvia Seawright and Miss Helen Dunning, Richmond Union high school girls, yesterday gained possession of the Pacific Coast Junior doubles title for girls under 18 years of age.

The local doubles team defeated Eugenia Cross and Betty Turner of Berkeley 7-5 and 6-3 in the title play.

The Richmond girls played probably the greatest match of their career in doubles competition yesterday. They earned the applause of the entire gallery that attended the championships at Berkeley yesterday because of their snap and flash and certainty on the court. Miss Seawright's powerful drives did terrific damage to the chances of the Berkeley girls, and she and Miss Dunning worked well in combination.

Following the title match, the two girls were presented a beautiful trophy by Homer T. Miller, chairman of the Pacific coast tournament and secretary of the Northern California Tennis association. The two local athletes were highly praised by Miller, and were prophesied fine careers in the sport.

The Pacific Coast girl victors this year also won the Contra Costa county women's championship at Crockett.

TROJANS BEAT AGGIES 27-7

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—UP—The powerful Southern California football team took advantage of every break that came its way today and defeated Oregon Aggies 27 to 7 before 50,000 fans in the Coliseum.

The game was the first important Pacific coast conference test for Coach Howard Jones' Trojans.

Paul Schissler's Oregon Aggies were a fighting aggregation. The Beavers weakened a bit, however, in the final quarter when the Trojans ran 13 points across the goal line.

The local soccer athletes will next week-end meet the Crockett squad at Crockett.

INVESTIGATION IN TAXES SEEN

WASHINGTON. Oct. 4. —UP— President Hoover moved today to carry out the two recommendations he promised the American Bankers' association in his speech at Cleveland Thursday.

The treasury department was advised by the White House that an investigation should be undertaken into the workings of the capital gains tax to develop whether it is retarding business recovery

At the same time it was learned authoritatively, Mr. Hoover is preparing to recommend to congress at the opening of its December session, not only a consideration of the capital gains tax situation, but also an inquiry into the manner in which the transportation act of 1920 is being used to limit building programs of railroads.

These two points were mentioned by the president in his Cleveland speech as being the further efforts contemplated by the administration to help the temporary depression.

The gains tax, according to Mr. Hoover's information, has had the effect of turning money away from expansion of legi.imate enterprises.

The railroad law places stringent restrictions upon the interstate commerce commission in allowing the roads to replace and enlarge their properties during periods when their financial situation is not the best, he also has been told.

The president prepared for a quiet week end at the White House, before he boards his special train for Boston late Sunday night.

Mr. Hoover's schedule in Boston Monday calls for arrival at about 11 a. m. He will address the American Legion convention at 11:30 a. m.

The speech will be broadcast nationally. After attending a civic luncheon the president will at 3 p. m. go before the American Federation of Labor convention at the Statler Hotel.

Broadcasting arrangements for this second speech have been cancelled because of the probability that a world series game at St. Louis may be played about that time. The speech may be read by President Greene of the Federation. over a national radio setup after the game.

Mr. Hoover will return to his special train and leave about 4 p. m. for Kings Mountain, S. C., where Tuesday he will deliver a speech at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Battle of King's Mountain.

W. E. Merrick, Beverly Hills; possible concussion of the brain and contusions.

Fred Beatty, Los Angeles county supervisor of Long Beach, contusions.

A. PANTAGES TRIAL HIT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—UP—The attorney-general's and district attorney's offices today filed a petition for a rehearing by the appellate court of its decision in granting Alexander Pantages a new trial on the charge that he assaulted 17-year-old Eunice Pringle.

The petition declared that if the recent decision was permitted to stand it would bring "fearful results for womanhood of the state."

The "fearful results' it was said would follow placing "a premium on the use of force and violence in the case of an attack upon a girl under 18 years of age.'

In reversing the superior court decision, in which the multimillionaire theater man was denied a new trial after he was convicted of assaulting Miss Pringle, the appellate court contended that since the girl, in her testimony, claimed Pantages used force that evidence concering her reputation was improperly barred from the defense case by Superior Judge Charles Fricke.

In the petition for a hearing the state pointed out that under such an interpretation of the law, when force and violence were charged in the case of an attack upon a girl under 18 years, the defendant could introduce evidence concerning his victim's reputation to a two-fold purpose, first to discredit her testimony against him and second to attenuate the act.

SAVE AND SUCCEED

People who save succeed. That has been demonstrated over and over again. The saving habit not only gets one started right but it gives confidence and the will to win.

The saving habit teaches us to value the time and thought and effort we have to expend to earn the money. It prepares us to meet emergencies. It puts us in position to take advantage of opportunities. It enables us to get what we want when we want it.

And should sickness, unemployment or misfortune come, the money saved and in the bank will take care of the situation.

Success in saving depends on action. Start today.

WILLIAM HAINES IS SEEN AS COWBOY

William Haines' latest talking comedy, "Way Out West" will open today at the Fox-California Theater with a cast which includes Leila Hyams, Polly Moran, Cliff Edwards, Frances X. Bushman, Jr. Vera Marsh, Charles Middleton, J. Pennick, Buddy Roosevelt and Jay Wilsey. The story, which is the work of Byron Morgan and Alfred Bock, was directed by Fred Niblo and is the veteran director's first comedy in seven years.

The picture is a howling farce which presents Haines as a carnival barker whose attempts at cheating a group of cowboys with a crooked roulette wheel land him on a Western ranch on the back of a bucking broncho. He becomes involved in a series of exciting escapades but before the picture is over has proved that he can stand the gaff of the country where men are men."

The picture is remarkable in being the first to have been filmed by a sound studio on wheels, a special train having been equipped with a laboratory car, camera car, and sound recording car, exclusive of the passenger section which served as a hotel for members of the company. Another novelty is the fact that many of the scenes were filmed atop the ancient Indian pueblos, the players having to climb three hundred foot ladders in order to reach the "location" grounds.

WILLIAM HAINES and Leila Hyams are starred in "Way Out West," now at the Fox-California.

COLEMAN STARS IN RAFFLES AT FOX

Ronald Colman reverts back to the pleasures of his childhood in "Raffles" his newest talking picture which is to be shown at the Fox-California Theater Tuesday. As the famous "Amateur Cracksman" in this melodramatic romance which scored sensational runs on the stage here and abroad, Colman engages in two of his favorite sports. And Producer Samuel Goldwyn has to pay him for it.

Motoring and cricket are the sports concerned. "Raffles" is the first picture to show a big league cricket game in full swing for an extended sequence.

Neither the two cricket coaches that Producer Samuel Goldwyn brought from England, nor the twenty-odd experienced players that he gathered together in the picture colony to give the sequence authenticity, were of assistance to Ronald Colman. He didn't need any.

During his boyhood in England, Colman was a member of the Hadley college team of Littlehampton, a junior championship combination that was well known in public school cricket. Later, he played in the Interregimental league on the team that represented the London Scottish.

Naturally he welcomed the opportunity "Raffles" gave him of renewed his hand at the famous game.

Then Colman is an avid motorist. His garage frequently has as many as twelve cars at one time. In "Bulldog Drummond," a motor car chase was used as effectively as galloping 'villain-still-pursued-her' events of yore. In "Raffles" Goldwyn outdid himself in providing a motor car pursuit that has all the characteristics of a professional automobile race.

Colman refused to accept a double, even for the rehearsals. When the studio car, an imported Sunbeam, refused to be piloted the way Colman wanted it to, he brought out his own Daimler. Samuel Goldwyn is still wondering why there had to be six rehearsals for the scene.

"There's such a thing as a man finding too much pleasure in his work. Enough is enough" Goldwyn said.

RONALD COLEMAN is starred in "Raffles," which opens Tuesday at the Fox-California theater.

CHICAGO MEANS BULLETS TO EUROPE

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—UP — The word "Chicago" means "bandits" to the average European. Only one out of every hundred persons in Europe has heard of Jane Addams but they all know who Al Capone is, said Bishop George Craig Stewart of Evanston, the youngest Anglican bishop in the world, who recently returned from representing the Chicago diocese at the Lambeth palace world conference of Episcopal church heads in London.

"The average European demands with a grin to see your bullet wounds when he learns you are from Chicago," the bishop said.

Chicago's greatest crime is its easy tolerance of crime, the bishop believes, and as a result the city is a target for jest and ridicule.

He regrets the public distortion of the birth control resolution of the bishops at the Lambeth conference.

Besides meeting King George and Queen Mary in private audience, lunching with Ambassador Dawes in London, observing the un-American cassocks and breeches at the conference, Bishop Stewart enjoyed a meeting with Dean Ralph Inge, known as "the gloomy Dean of St. Paul's."

"The gloomy dean is a provocative gadfly," Bishop Stewart said, "and some of his declarations should be taken with a grain of salt."

His recent endorsement of suicide Stewart does not take seriously.

During a trip through Europe after the Lambeth conference Bishop Stewart found great economic distress in England and Germany while France was enjoying prosperity.

"France sits in the sun, without an unemployment problem, destined to be the next leader of Europe along with Russia," he said "Germany is in despair, without hope industrially it appears, a crippled, devastated generation. England is not much better."

The discussion of the modern Christian concention of God in relation to evolution physcology, comparative religion, aesthetics, and sociology formed the high note of the Lambeth conference, the bishop explained.

"The bishops are the elders of British thought. They are not broken old men."

King Boris Now Mechanic

SOFIA, Bulgaria—King Boris of Bulgaria, whose hobby is driving railway locomotives, has now stepped forth in the role of an automobile mechanic.

Two well-known Bulgarian architects, residents of Phillipopolis, experienced great difficulties during a recent automobile trip, in the course of which their car repeatedly broke down. The chauffeur was unable to make the necessary repairs.

Suddenly a speeding automobile, driving along the same road, halted and King Boris stepped out. Recognizing the two architects as acquaintainces, the king inquired as to the nature of their trouble. The chauffeur was unable to explain the cause of the breakdown, so the king after sniffing at the cylinders and prowling beneath his friends' car, made his own examination and repaired the difficulty.

Turning to the chauffeur before he stepped back to his own auto, the king said. "As for you, my friend, I'd advise you not to follow a profession you don't understand."

Fake Warning Signals On Roads Scored

Increasing appearance of imitation traffic warning signs, or advertising signs made similar to official traffic signs or signals, is provoking many motorists who complain that such markers are confusing, according to the California State Automobile association.

Complaints received by the motoring organization state that these bogus warning signs will bear the words "Stop" "Slow" in large letters, or contain a red flasher light or reflection devices in direct imitation of the official highway signs that are posted throughout this section by the automobile association. Underneath the warning designed to catch the traveling motorist's eye will appear in smaller type the wayside advertising messages.

Such fake warning signs which invariably appear where there is no need of a warning are not only confusing to motorists, but they constitute a definite hazard, it is pointed out by complaining motorists. When the driver is constantly fooled by such signs while traveling along the highway, he tends to become careless of even the official signs, thus endangering himself and other users of the highway.

Adequate legislative authority for the removal without notice, of these unofficial advertising signs where they appear adjacent to highways is contained in Section 114 1-2 (b) of the California Vehicle Act, declares the legal department of the automobile association. This empowers local authorities as well as the state highway commission to remove or order the removal of such signs. This section of the vehicle act reads as follows:

"Display of unauthorized signs and signals prohibited. It shall be unlawful for any person to place or maintain or to display upon or in view of any street or highway any unofficial sign, signal or device which purports to be or is an imitation of or resembles an official traffic sign or signal, or which attempts to direct the movement of traffic or which hides from view any official traffic sign or signal. Every such prohibited sign, signal or device is hereby declared to be a public nuisance and the state highway commission and local authorities are hereby authorized and empowered to remove the same or cause it to be removed without notice."

PAINFUL CORNS

Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c, "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunion Remedy" 50c, (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

Conscience Fund Of England Grows

LONDON, Oct. 4.—UP—England's conscience is growing exceedingly restless. And the Chancellor of the Exchequer is smiling.

Recently he acknowledged receipt of $14,000 in "conscience money" from one signed "City", which was the largest individual sum received since the war when on one occasion treasury notes totaling $25,000 were paid in.

In 1926 less than $8000 was received and last year the amount reached upwards to $350,000.

Although many of the conscience stricken have sent letters of full penitence along with their remittance, none has ever revealed his or her name. Ironically, authorities point out, the donors could be prosecuted in the courts and probably enable the government to collect double the amount contributed.

Two Men Injured By One Bullet

SCOTIA, N. Y.—UP—A bullet from an accidentally discharged revolver injured two men here. According to police, Michael Yager, 24, was cleaning his gun and Walter Hartman, 21, was nearby. Suddenly there was a report and the bullet pierced Yager's thumb and struck Hartman in the back. Neither was hurt seriously.

Isle Prison In Celebration

CAMP HILL PRISON, Isle of Wight, Oct. 4.—UP—The convict holiday has begun here.

Carrying musical instruments of every description, more than two score prisoners of the Maidstone jail, transferred here as a reward for good conduct, arrived and plunged immediately into new tasks.

The prison is one of the most comfortable in the penal system and affords convicts an opportunity of having concerts, playing games and leading an open-air life after their jobs are done.

The grounds are large and on the scale of a garden suburb, with forest lands stretching to left and right of the picturesque lane leading to the jail.

Many of the prisoners are 'lifetermers and this short period is the only one of the year in which they are allowed variation of their duties. The privilege is vied for by all prisoners.

Meteorite Is Given Museum

CHICAGO.—The largest meteorite ever kownn to have hurtled earthward has been presented to the Field Museum of Natural History here, by its president, Stanley Field.

This 745-pound stone fell to earth on February 17 this year at 4:05 in the morning on a farm at Paragould, Arkansas; and penetrated nine feet of hard clay.

The meteor, from which the stone became detached, attracted attention in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas because of its bright light. Witnesses believed it to be an airplane going down in flames. It burst with detonations which awakened nearly everyone in Paragould, and stampeded livestock.

The largest stone previously seen to fall from a meteor weighs 100 pounds less than the one at the Field Museum. This fell at Knyahinya, Hungary, on June 9, 1866, to a depth of 11 feet, and now is exhibited at the Vienna museum.

LATEST JEWELS SHOWN AT PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 4.—UP—As the mannequin stepped grandly back into her dressing room on the eve of Paris' most brilliant fall opening, four men seized her and roughly stripped her of her jewels. It sounds like a detective story, but it is actually only an old Spanish custom Paris jewelers have for protecting their million franc baubles.

For necklaces worth 10,000,000 francs can't be thrown around a mannequin's dressing room. Four hundred thousand dollars is a lot for a Frenchman to lose through accident.

These expensive jewels are part of the advance Paris program of winter fashions. They are just bagatelles set with genuine diamonds, rubies, and emeralds amounting to a little dressmaker's highest dreams of bliss.

The new accessories for Madame's evening toilet include waist length necklaces hung with immense jeweled pendants, bracelets covering five inches of wrist, buckles and brooches bigger than silver dollars, and rings that cover the fingers from knuckles to joint.

Jewel decorted gowns represented the Paris conception of correct formal attire for evening. Three of the gowns were white, the fourth black velvet. "Fierte" was the name of one costume which earned loud applause—a gown of white faille that showed a stripe of satin in its weave. Five strands of rubies, worn close to the throat, accompanied it. They were joined by a large plaque of diamonds at the center front, and tied cravat-fashion at the back, with end dripping to the waistline.

What Paris calls a "cowl" neck—mainly because it is draped like a monk's hood—formed a setting for a diamond necklace on another white gown named "Phalene." The necklace was worn in the current Paris fashion, making a wide U-shape at front and back, and pulled well away from the throat. The diamond buckle on the gown "Phalene" was placed at the center-back of the waistline. Both necklace and buckle included sapphires, cut in oval shap and standing up a full half-inch from their platinum frames.

Evening gowns made entirely of black velvet, worn with white or colorless jewelry, are slated to be the big Paris fashion success for the coming season. One of these was included — a gown named "Fleur de Mal." It was cut on the accepted Empire lines that Paris dressmakers are featuring now, with skirt reaching the floor and waistline raised slightly above normal. One of the ten-million franc diamond chains and pendants was worn with "Fleur de Mal," a companion-piece to a platinum and diamond cuff designed on machine-like lines.

Drainage Of Airports To Be Studied

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—UP—One of the most extensive series of cooperative studies ever to be undertaken by American engineers on a nation-wide scale is being worked out by the committee on airport drainage and surfacing.

Comprised of members of the American Engineering Council, the American Road Builders and the Aeronautics branch of the commerce department, the committee has undertaken a study of the problems involved in providing adequate drainage and surfacing of airports throughout the United States.

Eighty-seven engineering committees, representing a total of about 450 engineers all over the country, have been organized by the main body, the committee on airport drainage and surfacing, to conduct this study. Each local committee is composed of outstanding engineers in the community, including a specialist on highways, drainage, soil technology and an engineer identified with the establishment and development of the local airport.

"As the problems of adequate airport drainage and surfacing differ according to the nature of the soil and climatic conditions, said Harry H. Blee, director of aeronautical development of the Aeronautics branch, the local engineering committees will be in a position to render valuable service by focusing their attention on the problems peculiar to their area and by endeavoring to arrive at their solution. Furthermore, these committees will make detailed studies of existing local conditions and practices."

NEW BOOKS AT RICHMOND LIBRARY

Several new books have been acquired by the Richmond public library, it was announced yesterday.

Some of the books include:

The letters of Archie Butt to his sister have just been published under the title "Taft and Roosevelt." Butt was military aide at the White House from 1938 until his death in the Titantic disaster in 1912. One of the chief interests in the letters is the light they throw on the gradual development of the historic Taft-Roosevelt controversy.

Truth that is stronger than fiction is told in "Escape" the personal narrative of a political prisoner who was rescued from the Fascist "Devil's Island" Lipari, a small island near Sicily. The escape was made in July 1929 and Francesco Nitti who recounts it, is a nephew of the ex-premier of Italy of the same name.

The air-minded will be interested in three recent additions to the library's air craft collection. "The Book of Gliders" by Teale tells in detail how to make and fly gliders and gives an account of their history. "Parachute" by Murphy is the story of the parachute to date and Manly's "Aviation From the Ground Up" is a complete study of the subject written in plain, understanding English "for the average everyday man who wants to learn the practical side of aviation.

A new and interesting account of the Santa Fe trail is given by R. L. Duffus in his book of that name "The Outlaw Years' by Robt Coates is the history of the land pirates of the Natchez Trace. A New York newspaperman tells a pleasing tale of his five years residence on the island of Bali which he calls "The Last Paradise." Bali is a very small island just off the coast of Java and until the last few years has been strangely untouched by western civilization.

Two new biographies are "Johannes Brahams" by Specht and "Charlemagne, First of the Moderns" by Chas. Russell.

"The Rhythm of the Red Man in Song, Dance and Decoration" by Julia Buttree will be found useful by scout and camp fire workers, and teachers. It gives graded lists of Indian dances with instructions and music. The last part of the book is devoted to Indian art and includes many illustrations in color.

"You Can Make It" is a booklet on wood utilization issued by the governemnt bureau of commerce. It tells how to make simple equipment for home and camp and amusement devices of interest to boys.

OUTLOOK FOR CHICAGO GOOD

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—UP—A judge who preaches harshness as a cure for crime, predicted today that "decency will win in Chicago within three months."

"The gangsters are on the run," said Judge John N. Lyle of the felony court.

Lyle has been a pivot in Chicago's drive on gangsters, started when Jake Lingle was slain. He has called police captains into conference to assure them of his support; he has issued vagrancy warrants by the scores; he has reduced the number of court incidents in which defendants "walk in, give bond and walk out." This he has done by fixing high cash bail on some cases and requiring unquestionable security in others. He has taunted gangsters for fearing him. He has criticised attorneys for defending known police characters.

One lawyer attempted to raise the issue of constitutional rights in seeking a change of venue from Lyle's court for his hoodlum client. "Constitutional rights, bosh" snapped Lyle. "What of the peoples' rights? Motion denied."

Mildly mannered, soft voiced out of court, Lyle is a broad shouldered man, who hit 'em hard as a college football player, hit 'em hard as an amateur boxer and is hitting 'em hard as a jurist.

"I don't want the small fry—the petty offenders," he tells the police.

When police arrested 90 bookmakers on gambling, Lyle was indignant. "The police have bigger things to do," he said. He got up in the middle of the night to approve bonds for the prisoners and the next day set them free.

Bootleg Liquor Flow Decreasing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. —UP—The federal prohibition bureau officially estimated tonight the flow of bootleg liquor at somewhat less than forty per cent of what the American people were consuming before the 18th amendment became operative.

Roughly the estimate is that about seven gallons of bootleg intoxicants are consumed annually for each man, woman and child.

The estimate by Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director, the first ever officially made by federal prohibition authorities, was that 876,338,718 gallons of spirits, wines and beer were produced by bootleggers in the year ending June 30, 1930.

In 1914 taxes were paid on 2,256,272,765 gallons of liquor.

Owing to varying prices the bureau declined to estimate the money value of the annual bootleg liquor bill. Figuring at $10 a gallon it would reach $8,763,387,180 a year.

New Pastor At St. Edmund's

It was learned yesterday that Rev. E. Castledine of Balboy England, has been appointed by Bishop Edward Lamb Parsons, to take the pastorship of the St. Edmund's Episcopal church here. He will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Rev. H. I. Oberholtzer, who recently accepted a place as rector of the San Rafael Episcopal church.

Rev. Castleding is expected to arrive in Richmond about the first of December. He has been in California before and is acquainted with the local field.

3 Killed In Gang Shooting

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—Gangsters today shot and killed a woman and two men, and probably fatally wounded another man when they fired into a little fruit store in a suburban section.

County detectives believed the shooting resulted from enmity caused by liquor dealings.

The dead are Joseph Libianco and his wife and Louis Tomano. Libianco's brother Michael was wounded.

Constitution Of Cuba Is Suspended

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—The Cuban Congress gave President Berardo Machado the power to suspend constitutional rights until after the November elections at a special session early today.

Congress adopted the measure, presented by the president, by a vote of 15 to 5 in the Senate and 78 to 10 in the House.

The president did not state when or for how long he intended to use the power granted him. He only pointed out that he desired the power to suspension available in the event that it became necessary.

Congress adjourned immediately after giving the necessary majority vote to the presidential measure.

Freedom of the press, of speech and of assembly are among the rights which may be affected if the president decides to use the power given him by Congress.

Reform School Matron Stabbed

MEDIA, Penn., Oct. 4.—UP—Mrs. Vida Robare, 33, matron at Glenn Mills reformatory for boys, was found dead in her room in a cottage on the institution's grounds late yesterday afternoon with 38 stab wounds in her body, a fractured skull and a broken rib.

Charles Robare, husband of the dead woman, and a guard at the institution, found the body lying face upward on the floor covered only by an undergarment. The husband was questioned by police for several hours last night and it was later announced he had convinced them he had not been near the cottage.

A check up showed that none of the inmates had fled.

The condition of the wounds, led police to believe that the murderer was either "a maniac or someone in a terrific frenzy" who used an ice pick as the weapon.

Richmond Is County's Deep Water Port

This city has the distinction of being the deep water port for Contra Costa county. While other county cities have some water frontage and some shipping facilities, none has the advantages offered by Richmond.

Richmond is the logical outlet for the products of its own factories, those of the entire county and of a wide area in the delta and throughout northern California.

This is true because Richmond is now in the truest sense a world port, receiving and transmitting cargo of all sorts and sizes on a basis of equality with the other and older ports around San Francisco bay. As a result of the intensive work of the Traffic Committee of the local Chamber of Commerce, this city has been given full recognition by steamship lines. As a result of the cooperative program between all the various forces of the community the finest of modern facilities and 32 feet of water have been provided on the newly developed inner harbor.

RICHMOND IS NOW THE FRONT DOOR OF CONTRA COSTA COUNTY.

We have for some time been a growing industrial community, but not until lately did we develop the valuable shipping facilities and connections so necessary to complete our program.

Don't Be Afraid of College!

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND American boys and girls are going—going—gone away to college this month, for the first time—
Many are registering as Freshmen this very week—
And at least twice two hundred thousand fathers and mothers and sisters and cousins and aunts
Are as anxious and excited and glad and proud
As the new members of the Class of 1934.
The feelings of the home folk are pretty well summed up
In those famous lines from Longfellow's Building of the Ship:
"Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea!
"Our hearts, our hopes are all with thee,
"Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
"Our faith triumphant o'er our fears—
"Are all with thee—are all with thee!"
But, really, there should be no fears
Either on the part of the Freshmen or of their families.
College is a glorious adventure,

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

College is—or may be—four years for enriching the rest of one's life,
College is an amalgam of hard work, hard play, friendship and growth,
College, above everything else, is the opportunity To satisfy the mind's hunger for information, for ideas, for beauty, for intelligent self-expression.
If there were nothing at college but the library
And somebody in the English department to show the college girl and man
How to find their way about in a real library—
If alma mater were only that, she would be worth while
To every young mind deserving her.

Why is anybody afraid of college?
Many of those entering just now are timid,
As we wanted to remind Dr. John M.
Thomas, president of Rutgers University,
When over the radio he recently warned this fall's Freshmen
To "leave their conceit at home."
Poor dears—we think that most of them are far more frightened than conceited,
That they are more likely to suffer from an inferiority than from a superiority complex,
That they are all hot and bothered
For fear they won't look right, act right, be popular—
Some of them are even worried
For fear they can't do their work!
The only thing to say to them
Is that, if they are poised, simple, alert, reasonably well dressed and attractive and responsive,
They will make all the friends they need—
And that, after all, social success at college is or should be a by-product Of the business of making oneself a more intelligent person—
Which is what being educated means.
The Freshman who has survived today's rightly rigorous college entrance requirements Need not, we think, be afraid of future survival—
If (this is a tremendously important
"if") he or she will work hard from the start.
Getting off on the wrong foot, scholastically, during the first Freshman half-year,
Makes all the rest of one's course so much harder,
Even if there is no result more tragic.
Don't waste time and mental energy
fearing a flunk,
But WORK—from and for the very first classroom assignment—
You can't begin too soon to get the habit!
As for the fears of the home folk,
They have been stimulated by all the wild writing about college life and its flaming youth—
Also, it may be, by the conviction
That the boys and girls will read and learn doctrine
Disturbing to parental philosophy.
The "wild college life" stuff is mostly motion picture bunk—Unless parents foolishly give college students enough money to finance dissipation—
Even then the campus wildflowers seldom bloom there long—
They simply cannot get by with all play and no work, in a modern college.
As for any one's being afraid of what they read and hear,
We firmly believe that young men and women are helped
By learning all things, questioning all things, working out their own philosophy of life.
We think they have the sense to evolve a philosophy
That knows what to reject, of the new ideas, as well as what to accept.
We believe that the sane, clear-eyed courage of knowledge
Is preferable to the blind illusion of ignorance.
We wish that fearful elders would all read, in the current Harper's, La Mar Warrick's article about the college girls and boys of today,
Which she calls Farewell to Sophistication.
She is the only woman member of the faculty of the School of Journalism at Northwestern University,
And she knows her collegiates of 1930,
Of whom she writes:
"They have more knowledge than any previous generation has ever had.
"The results of this knowledge and observation are very different "From those which the city of Boston might prophesy.
"Far from swallowing whole all the advanced theories,
"They are accepting some and rejecting others with surprising wisdom.
"They are creating their own set of values."
They do not, in short, cling to the old traditions of sentimentality,
But they rediscover for themselves
The old truths of sentiment—
Such truths as romantic love, marriage that can work, the beauty of nature.
"Up in his room," cheerfully concludes Mrs. Warrick, in writing about campus youth,
"Johnnie is smoking a reflective pipe
"And deciding that some of this modern stuff is worth following up—
"But a lot of it is just plain hooey!"
Freshman Jennie is likely to reach the same conclusion as Johnnie—
So don't be alarmed about either!

SOMEWHERE

I think that somewhere there must be—
In some far place above the sky—
Green meadows, where, if we could see,
(Alas for our thick-blinded eye!)
Those tired horses in the street
Who daily drag their heavy load
May leave this place of stumbling feet
And romp in Pegasus' abode.

HELEN LORING LINN.

The late T. M. Zink of Iowa, whose will just made public provides for a library that will admit neither women nor women's books, probably lived most of his life in unconscious dependence on ONE woman's book—whatever cookbook his wife used.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

There are some fruits and vegetables that will retain their flavor and characteristics in spite of the cooking methods pursued by the most inexperienced cooks. The young housewife who happens to select these for her first home-prepared dinners is likely to scoff at cookbooks and lengthy recommendations. To cook is a simple matter, she will insist, and any one can just pick it up without instruction.

KAREN HOLLIS

One of these sweet young things paused at my desk one day and gasped in amazement to find volume after volume devoted to the subject of cooking vegetables. That Victoria Carlsson of Teachers College had prepared lengthy abstracts on the subject of recent research in cooking fruits and vegetables was appalling to her. She had heard of scholars pursuing the vagrant destinies of wayward verbs through volume after volume, but that our leading universities maintain laboratories that investigate the characteristics of various humdrum foods was a revelation.

Perhaps it would be a surprise to many young housewives to know how much study has gone into the development of modern cooking methods. In addition to the university laboratories, and working in co-operation with them, are the educational staffs of food products corporations, and various reporters of their activities, like myself, who maintain testing kitchens where cooking methods are thoroughly tried before being confided to you.

Our sweet young thing who thought cooking came naturally to any one who wanted to try it, met her Waterloo in no more complicated an undertaking than cooking brussels sprouts. The sprouts she cooked were strong, soggy and their color had changed to an unpleasant brown. She knew something was wrong and she wanted to know what it was.

This is a vegetable that must be cooked just right to be flavory and palatable:

BRUSSELS SPROUTS AU BEURRE NOIR

1 pint brussels sprouts
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon vinegar

Wash the sprouts in cold water and remove all wilted leaves and stems. Drop in a large kettle of boiling water and cook, uncovered, over a very hot fire. Be sure there is plenty of water and a very hot fire, for it is slow cooking that develops undesirable odors and change in colors. Overcooking is another danger. Ten to fifteen minutes should be sufficient, and it is well to watch the sprouts closely and drain them the moment they are tender, for in some cases they take even less time than that.

After they are drained and put in a hot dish, add salt. Melt the butter in a small skillet and let it become brown. Remove from the fire add vinegar, pour over the sprouts and serve.

BLACK FAILLE WITH KNIFE PLEATINGS AND CERISE VELVET BOWS

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WHAT the designers are doing for charm—especially in the way of evening clothes—is something to make a fashionwise person rave on indefinitely. There's positively no excuse for looking dowdy or ill-dressed at night time during this season, for there are all sorts and conditions of clothes suitable to each and every personality.

You must look tall—and slinky—if it is otherwise possible. And by this time you know the modern designer well enough to be certain that tricks of the trade will lengthen out a figure, and even make it slim, while the fashion lightly considered might lead you to believe this miracle an impossibility.

The dresses are long, certainly, just off the floor or ankle length and most of them are even all around, though, as ever, there are some ultra-smart exceptions to the rule. Some even trail on the floor.

The Molyneux dress of triple chiffon is a sunburst accordion pleated thing. Its line is as simple as it can be, but the fit of the bodice, the drape of the cowl neck and the long, graceful sweep of the skirt distinguish it as one of the season's best.

You will immediately ask what color. Well, black and white are both good and both the best I should say. But there are the jewel tones—ruby, sapphire, emerald—that are awfully good for those who know what color does for their beauty and when and how to wear it.

The off-shoulder dress is one of the most important. It was done during the summer and the style caught on. It has a bit of a Victorian look about it, as for instance the one of black faille on this page. It is very stiff, with big bows of cerise velvet laid over the flat pleating on the left shoulder and again on the skirt, at the top of the same sort of pleating there.

To wear with this—an old-fashioned gold chain preferably—nothing that takes away attention from the dress itself.

Where Vionnet Shines

VIONNET has done her noblest in an evening gown of crepe satin. There are loads of material in the skirt that slinks and shows the figure like nothing that has been seen for years. Little flat revers turn over at the neckline. Then the whole bodice gathers together at the back and ties behind in two great floppy bows.

In this gown, as in many more of the season's favorites, the clever handling of the material is the whole sum and substance of the design. Of trimming there is none. Only the lines of the fabric itself count for its smartness. And this is the sort of an evening dress with which jewels do their prettiest. It is a wonderful background for diamonds or for pearls, or for any of the brilliant colored precious or semi-precious stones.

* * *

Chanel's Drop Shoulder

THE tall woman who can play around with crosswise lines will delight in Chanel's black tulle dress, each graduated ruffle being edged with silver embroidery. The same Victorian look appears again in this dress, showing plainly that the evening trend is largely in that direction.

One dress of brilliant red fills many a heart's desire, and the fashions for this season seem particularly to lend themselves to the picturesqueness that this color always manages to carry with it.

Redfern's red evening gown is simple enough in appearance when finished and ready for wear, but in reality it is made up of folded pieces of the triple chiffon from which it is made, these being arranged in a square line across the dress, under the arms and again low placed around the hips. Around the bottom is a flat flounce of the narrowest of box pleats. It has fullness and softness and plenty of interesting detail of design, and it happens to be one of the smartest of the new season's models.

* * *

Slippers That "Go"

NOW with a dress like this Grecian sandals are the best sort of slippers to wear, and they should be dyed to match the dress, with gold leather heels and gold trimmings to make them interesting.

With any of the pleated or Grecian looking dresses sandals are the thing, but with the more period sort of thing opera pumps hold their place as always. With black dresses brightly colored shoes are often worn, and then there are the silver slippers, which in their place are excellent. For instance, the silver embroidered tulle dress on this page would most decidedly call for silver slippers, while the one with bright velvet bows might venture slippers dyed to match those bows.

Youth and Beauty for the Dry Skin

DRY SKIN is usually a clean and convenient skin. By which, we mean it looks well-groomed and is not hard on the collars and the backs of frocks. But it has a habit of losing its bloom at an early age—unless it is wisely and consistently cared for.

FRANCES OLIVIER

One thing it requires above all else is "nourishment." Daily it must be "fed" with a rich face cream, or given an oil bath to keep it smooth, unlined, dewy. It shies at hard water and harsh soaps, and so should be cleansed regularly with cream and only occasionally with soap and water. Then the water must be soft and tepid, and the soap bland and soothing, like olive oil soap or castile soap, and the cleansing done with the suds—not with the lather directly from the cake.

A good tissue cream should be applied to the area around the eyes—you know, the crows'-feet area—at least once a day, and left on for not less than fifteen minutes. This little habit alone will do wonders to keep youth in the face for years and years.

The choice of powder and rouge for dry skin is a delicate business indeed. Good grooming demands that one be powdered and rouged, but dry skins demand very special qualities of powder and rouge, otherwise they have a way of shriveling up, or at least, looking about as live and lush as a piece of parchment.

We are all for first quality cream rouge for the dry skin, and powder of a creamy texture—preferably a powder made on an actual cream base. As a further precaution against drying we suggest that the make-up operation start with a soothing, softening make-up foundation, either cream or liquid. Better yet, use a foundation specially prepared for dry skin. Certain of the anti-chap preparations are really excellent as powder bases.

Periodically the dry skin should be given a rest from all sorts of make-up. No easy matter when one has to face the world every day and the whole family on Sunday. The omission of powder may make you feel undressed, but just consider how much worse you would feel if you had an oily skin and for some reason had to abstain from powder!

For the dry skin already beginning to show signs of age we know of nothing more effective than the use of stimulating preparations. Use them after the cream cleansing and before applying the "feeding" cream. They whip up the circulation and make the tissues just doubly responsive to the "feeding."

MR. COOLIDGE, the columnist, covers the world series:

MANSION HOUSE, Philadelphia, Oct. 1—There is nothing so good as open-air sport for building up the health of the nation. Citizens are reminded of this fact by the world series, which opened here in Philadelphia today. Philadelphia's annual output of pig iron is 213,650 tons per year. Pittsburgh is in second place, but leads in steel ingots.

The Philadelphia aggregation, advised and properly counseled by Mr. Cornelius F. McGillicuddy (Dem.), won the inaugural contest. The score is non-essential. However, if citizens would purchase more non-essential things it would increase the national buying power.

Mr. Hoover, a high government official, threw out the first ball. This is one of the great burdens of the Presidency—throwing out first balls, pushing gold buttons to dedicate dams and opening county fairs with radio speeches. The President also has to sign or veto bills. It is quite a strain. The second game of the series will be played tomorrow, except in case of rain. In that eventuality, play will be resumed on the next fair day.

Mr. Coolidge, the columnist, covers the Harvard-Yale game:

CENTRAL INN, New Haven, Nov. 22—Two great educational institutions met in a contest of football here today. Harvard, which was founded in 1636 by our wise forefathers, received the kickoff. Yale, though its charter did not become effective until 1701, with the scientific school opened later than that, stopped its adversary on the 27-yard line.

These two great schools then settled down to a kicking game. When there is kicking it is always a wise policy to divert the subject to other issues, such as the merchant marine, the extension of irrigation, better barracks for the nation's army, reforestation or something like that. This Harvard proceeded to do.

As some one has rightly said, knowledge is power. The Harvard line had power. Still more power will be consumed when great hydro-electric projects now under way are finally completed in one vast link. Yale won the game, 37 to 0, but this does not make any difference, as the two teams will meet again next year.

Mr. Coolidge, the columnist, covers a hockey game:

COMMODORE HOTEL, New York, Dec. 3—The Montreal Maroons, representatives of a friendly nation and neighbor, clashed with the New York Rangers at Madison Square Garden tonight. This match would have been impossible but for the introduction of artificial ice.

Here is a comparatively recent innovation. Citizens of this fortunate country may not only freeze an ice hockey surface at will, but due to advances in science and the instalment plan, they may now freeze miniature skating rinks in their own electric iceboxes. When Abraham Lincoln was splitting hockey sticks, this was never dreamed of.

But today this progressive land not only has artificial ice, but artificial silk, artificial wool and artificial jewelry. The day is not far distant when we shall have artificial thunder and rain. The Montreal Maroons won the contest 3 to 2, thus establishing another link of friendship with Canada, which exports wheat, silver, fur and Baldwin apples to foreign markets.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

MANY INJURED IN CAPTURE OF CITY

attacked the Hotel America, where the chief of federal troops, General Figueredo, and other officers were living. General Figueredo was not at the hotel but the other officers resisted the attack and there was a period of severe fighting which ended in the triumph of the revolutionaries.

Two Dead

Lieutenant Aguairre, adjutant to General Fugueredo, and Lieutenant Broche were killed. The general was taken prisoner when he returned to the hotel. Federal troops, including ehe sixth cavalry regiment, and the fifth artillery were forced to surrender to the state forces which surrounded them.

Troops of the fifth cavalry and artillery refused to obey orders, their officers remaining loyal to the government. Federal employes in the customs house and other officers abandoned their posts.

Thousands of armed civilians were reported patrolling the streets of Uruguayana.

Town Siezed

Advices from Rivera said the Uruguayan consul at Santa Ana de Livramento, Brazil had arrived at Rivera and reported that revolutionaries seized Santa Ana at 8 p. m. Friday after the fifth artillery and units of infantry had cannonaded the barracks of the loyal seventh cavalry, which surrendered at 11 p. m.

Other advices gave only meagre indications of the developments after the state revolutionary coup. Part of the federal artillery battery was reported to have maneuvered 20 miles from Santa Ana, opening fire on the rebels, who sent out a force to capture the battery. Advices from Bella Union said all traffic was interrupted with Barra Cuarel, while Brazil authorities were preventing anyone from leaving the country.

Exiles Return

The outbreak was a signal for many exiled Brazilians to return across the border from Uruguay to join the revolutionaries, who were said to have about 8000 troops.

The leadership of the insurgents also was indefinite, although there were reports that former President Dr. Arthur Da Silva Barnardes, who was in office from 1919 to 1922 and who has opposed President Washington Luis, was the real leader.

A regiment of federal troops which remained loyal to the federal government at Rio de Janiero resisted and it was reported the Santa Ana barracks located strategically on a barren mesa, were under siege.

Play Will Be Given Here By Richmond Club

A capacity crowd is anticipated at the presentation of the "Three Wise Fools" a three-act comedy by Austin Strong given under the auspices of the Richmond club Tuesday night in the Roosevelt auditorium.

The production promises to be one of the most worthwhile presentations of the year and those composing the cast claim previous stage experience, which will give the play more than an "amateur theatrical" standing.

Gervase Browne, Dr. T. A. Guthrie and Russell Whiting who will portray the three main characters are well known in dramatic circles.

Regina Matthews plays an important part in the production and was recently seen in the lead of "Come Out of the Kitchen." Allen Moore will be well remembered by local audiences and Virginia Bryant who portrays a leading role, has appeared in many plays in both the eastbay and San Francisco.

Clare Thomas, and Melvin Sprague took active parts in "Full House." Henry Clarke, C. F. Westwood and Ben Banner have appeared in various dramatic productions.

The comedy is being ably directed by Mrs. Zelda Chapin who is well known in Richmond in this capacity, she also has appeared in character parts in numerous presentations.

New Nash To Be Announced By Factory

KENOSHA, Wish., Oct. 4.—Widespread interest in the four distinctive new series of motor cars soon to be announced swept headquarters of the Nash Motor company this week. On the strength of information concerning these new cars, advance orders have been received in such volume as to necessitate making solid train load shipments and solid boat shipments of the new cars, which will be used for display and delivery to consumers on the announcement date, Thursday, October 9.

"It has been some time since shipments of automobiles have been made in such quantities by manufacturers in the industry," C. H. Bliss, sales manager said today, "and it is not only gratifying to receive such a display of public confidence as expressed by the orders placed for our new cars far in advance of the public's having seen the new models, but it is also an indication of improved business conditions throughout the industry, as these large shipments are going to all parts of the United States."

Regular advance shipments have kept the Nash factories in Kenosha, Racine and Milwaukee busy during the past few weeks and isure extensive displays of the new models as an interesting feature of the announcement period. Hundreds of thousands of motorists have been invited to attend the announcement showings in all parts of the country and study the new cars which are considered the most important contribution the Nash company has ever made toward the increased luxury and increased economy of motoring.

The enthusiasm and public confidence in the forthcoming Nash models, expressed in these huge advance shipments, forecasts one of the most successful public announcements in the history of the company, particularly as it has been stated the Nash company has been one of the largest manufacturers to make plans which will greatly assist in stimulating general business activity.

SHOWDOWN ON WAR STAND ASKED

GENEVA, Oct. 4.—UP— Lord Cecil of England, one of the world's foremost advocates of peace, called on the nations of the world today either to about face on the path to peace and cease the halting efforts which have been made so far or to proceed wholeheartedly with the gallant enterprise of abolishing war.

His stirring challenge was issued at the closing session of the League of Nations assembly, which adjourned until next September.

After declaring that the certainty of politics might make this his last address to the assembly, Lord Cecil said:

Final Appeal

I make this final appeal. I say to every delegate, you have to decide what you really want. Do you really want peace? Are you really determined on what obligations you are willing to take, what sacrifices you will undergo? There is no greatness in this world without danger. We must be prepared to pay a price for it. Let us count the cost now before it is too late.

"Let those who are not with us wholeheartedly turn back. We would regret the loss of their assistance, but we must not be hampered by the faint hearted. The league is fighting war, which has been buttressed and supported for centuries by vested interests of all kinds. Ie is astonishing what forces, even moral and religious, defend the institution of war. Every government has military advisers who constantly oppose the relaxation of preparations for war.

"These are our obstacles. We must face these obstacles, which appear in many ways so respectable. It is not worth while to take risks? If we believe so, then in heaven's name, let us not be deterred by those inconsiderable evils."

Vital Meeting

This assembly was regarded as one of the most vital since the league was organized in 1920, since it brings the league almost to a showdown on disarmament.

The most important achievement was a solemn engagement of 28 nations to help one another financially in case of aggression. Other achievements included withdrawal of the last military occupation of their Saar basin; calling of a world wide opium conference on next May 30; calling of a world economic conference to study the reasons for universal depression; renewed authority to mandatory powers given in the virtual rebuke to England for the disorders in Palestine; the seatus quo of minoriey populations in post-war political states enforced and Germany's attempts to reopen the minorities question rejected; the world court judges increased to 15, and new judges elected.

League Of Nations In Adjournment

GENEVA, Oct. 4.—UP—The 11th assembly of the League of Nations concluded its work and adjourned today.

The session officially was closed shortly after noon.

The final session of the assembly was marked by a stirring challenge to nations of the world either to about face in the path of peace or proceed whole-heartedly in the enterprise of abolishing war.

Nice Chickens Lay Breakfast

SCAMPTON, Eng.—William Dickson awoke to find part of his breakfast on his bed, for a hen had come in during the early morning and laid an egg.

ONE DEAD, TWO DYING IN CRASH

the stage, evidently out of control, swerved out into the highway, and then crashed into the right hand side of the Hercules bridge.

Ten inch square posts that supported the two-by-four fence railings, were torn from their bases, as the stage crashed through, and were hurled more than 25 feet through the air.

Glass and pieces of lumber strewed the highway for a distance of nearly 500 feet.

The stage, after crashing thru the railing, hung over the 25-foot embankment on its undercarriage.

Narrow Escape

Witnesses of the wreckage, declared if the stage had gone completely over the embankment into the creek bed, only a miracle could have saved the occupants of the vehicle.

There were, as nearly as could be ascertained, 25 persons on the stage, authorities offering the theory that only those on the right hand side were injured.

Martinez hospital attaches declared last night that Sprachin could not live, other than by a miracle.

Fractured Skull

He is suffering from a basal fracture of the skull and a badly mangled chest, nurses at the hospital stated.

A slim chance for recovery is given the unidentified woman.

The theory that she might be Mrs. T. McGee, 586 Forty-second street, Oakland, was offered last night, after T. J. McGee, of the same address, said his mother had wired him she was returning from the east, by stage, and had not been located.

Enroute Home

The dead man, a Sacramento salesman, was enroute to Oakland to visit his wife, Mrs. Kittie Kimball, when the crash occurred. Mrs. Kimball was staying with a daughter, Mrs. Bernice Raynor, 3215 Bona street, Oakland, and came to Richmond immediately after hearing of the fatality.

Delegates To Legion Meet Are Welcomed

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—With thousands of delegates present, the American Legion convention was welcomed here today.

Registration of upwards of 50,000 Legionnaires 48 hours before the opening of the convention; relief work among veterans and their widows and aid for those unemployed sounded as the keynote of the convention by National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer, completion of plans for the welcome to President Herbert Hoover Monday, opening of unofficial activities by delegates, and the hourly arrival by air, train, automobile and even on foot of Legionnaires and convention visitors marked the pre-convention hours.

Boasting the largest congregation of famous flyers ever assembled on the Atlantic coast, an eight-day aerial display, listing air races, stunt flying and displays, opened at East Boston airport under the auspices of the American Legion aviation committee. Such famous birdmen as Captain Frank Hawks, speed record holder; Jimmie Haisip, Roger Q. Williams and many others, were on the program.

The pre-convention race for the scene of next year's convention of the Legion has settled down to a battle between Los Angeles, Calif., and Detroit, Mich.

Commander Charles H. Schutz of the Michigan state department brought two certified checks for $25,000 each, one from Detroit and the other from the State of Michigan as proof of the sincerity of the automobile city. Los Angeles has placarded convention headquarters and other meeting places of the "Buddies" with signs welcoming them to the California city next year.

New War Is Seen Brewing In Europe

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—UP—Europe has not got its fill of war. The world conflict's disaster to everybody has not taught trans-Atlantic statesmanship that the chief concern for Europe should be readjustment of conditions to prevent another general uprising. The terms of the various peace treaties made after the World war are showing they possess no lasting power for peace. As Europe recovers more and more from the prostrate economic conditions left by the last strife, a new one approaches nearer and nearer.

If it comes, to overwhe'm Europe afresh, nobody will be able to say there was no warning of its approach. The belligerent spirit of Nationalism in Germany, cooperating with the semi - communistic Fascists, is ready to burst forth as soon as the Germans have all their strength back. Italy is increasingly bellicose. The Balkans, where the last war began, are once more developing rival hatreds. Russia stands ready to throw a bomb into Europe at any favorable opportunity.

Only France and Great Britain, among the important continental powers stand aloof: France because she rightly estimates her inability to fight another war without the problematical help of Great Britain; and Great Britain because the British have nothing to gain and everything to lose by a new conflict, however it terminates. Holland, Belgium and Scandinavia with Spain and Portugal, do not count. They are out of the picture; but the rest of Europe is moving in a belligerent environment that is as potentially dangerous as were European conditions in the few years that preceded the World war.

Let Germany and Austria and south-eastern Europe fully return to normal power and war will show its head around the corner, with resolute purpose, unless conditions are changed by European statesmen to assure peace by making concessions. If Germany is relieved of some of the present burdens of peace, war on any widespread scale, will be headed off, but not otherwise. The Germans have no logical reason to complain of the present terms of peace, for had they won they would have been more relentless themselves. A new war, too, may take such a moral turn against Germany as to destroy the nation before it finishes. But, Europe would be partly destroyed, too, in the process, to everybody's grave loss.

LINGLE MURDER MYSTERY SOLVED

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—The mystery of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter, was believed near a definite solution today after a conscience-stricken chauffeur told a coroner's jury he had aided in the slaying.

Lingle was killed by Joe Traum and members of his notorious Indiana and Kentucky gang. Frank Bell, former convict, who has been under arrest since June on charges of robbery and murder, told Coroner Herman N. Bundensen and a jury Friday night.

Hired For $10.000

Traum, Bell, Richard Michael Sullivan and a blond man whose name Bell did not know were hired for $10,000, Bell testified, to kill the reporter. They were to collect the money, he said, from Christ Patras, North Side restaurant owner and friend of Jack Zuta, powerful gang leader, whom police say hated Lingle because the reporter "shook him down" and then double crossed him.

When they tried to collect their $10,000, Bell testified, Patras drew a gun instead of money from his safe, a duel ensued and Patras was killed. A few months later Luta was killed in a Wisconsin hotel resort.

Killed Patras

Bell has been in jail since late June, Sullivan since late July, Police say both have confessed numerous robberies and to killing Patras.

Traum is in Leavenworth prison where he and Bell first became acquainted. He was returned there recently for violating his parole. He was in Chicago June 9.

Coroner Eundensen said he has been checking Bell's confession for many weeks and has found no reason to doubt it. He hurriedly called a jury together. Friday night and made public the story after he had become convinced that it was true.

Blond Man Slayer

Bell told the jury that he believed the blond man whose name he did not know was the actual slayer of Lingle. Bell came to Chicago on April 9, he said and met Traum That afternoon, Bell testified, he drove a stolen automobile, with Traum and Sullivan as passengers, to the Illinois Central pedestrain subway, where Lingle was slain. There, he said, they met the blond man.
